Pēteris Treicis

CEO & founder of PAA

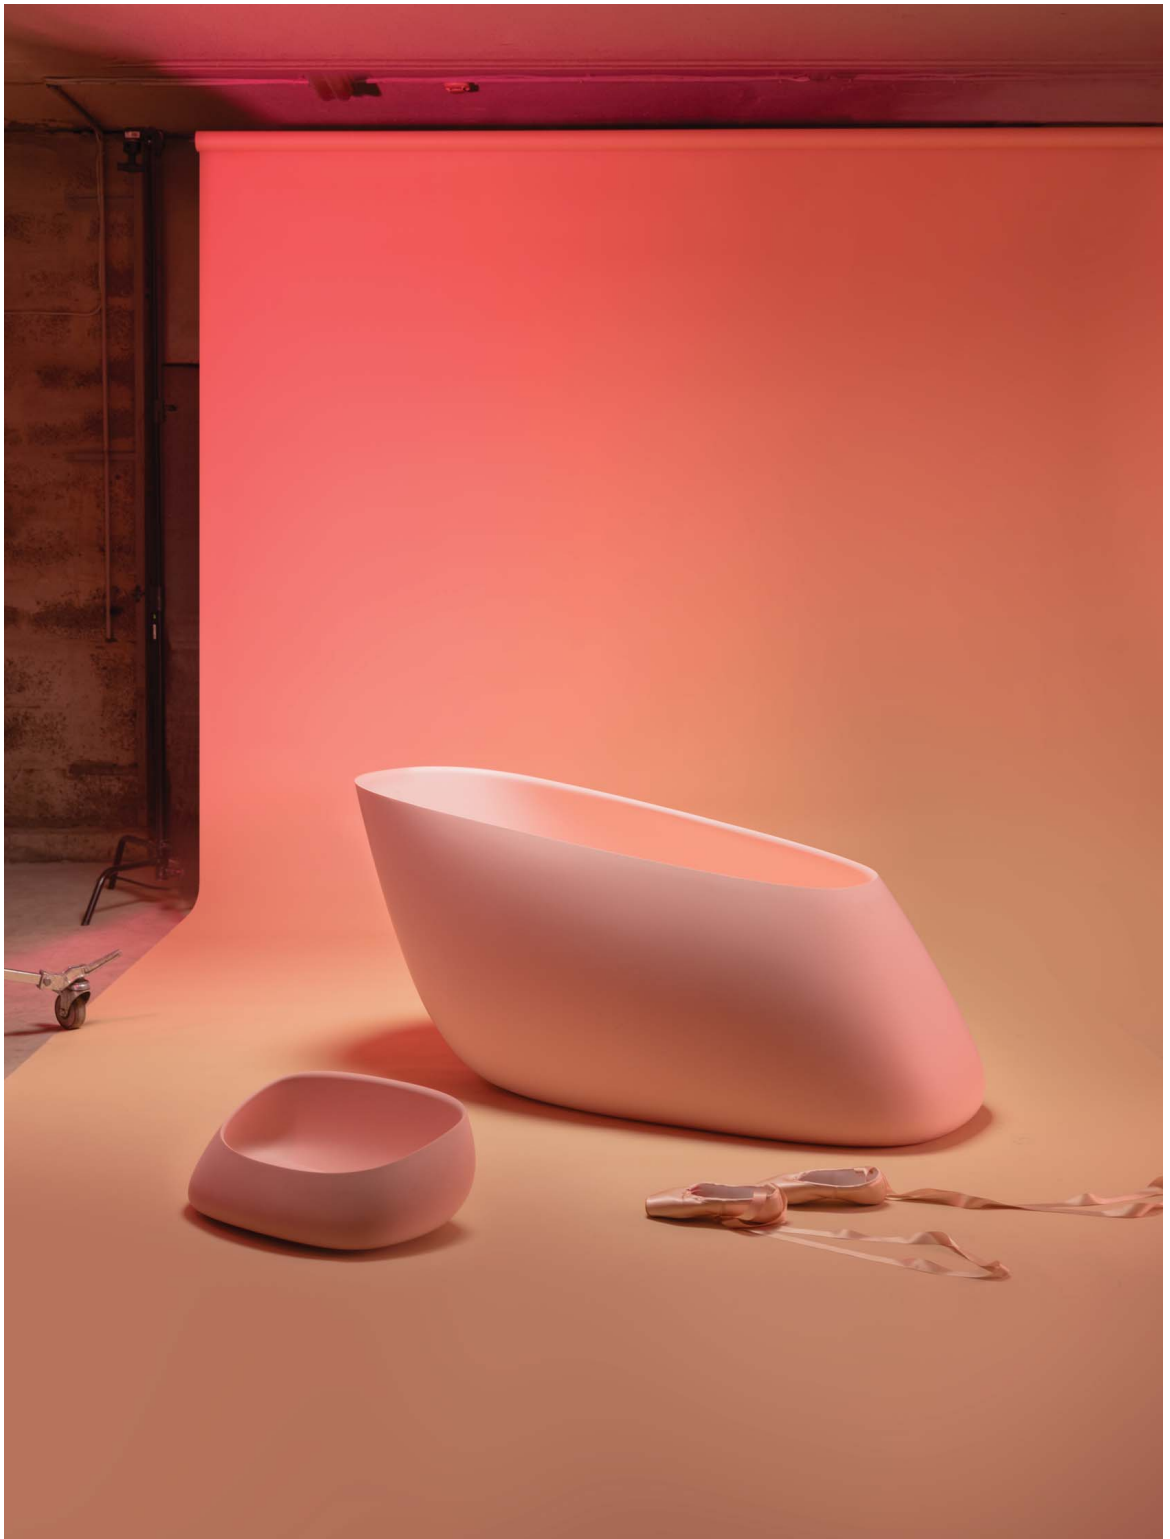

“Design is not a superficial act, it’s not about just style for style’s sake, it’s about making life more interesting, more inspiring, and better functionally. We all come in touch with around 800 objects a day on average. So you imagine all these things you have in your life, how they have an impact, an effect on you mentally, physically, physiologically, and spiritually. Objects have energy, these things are either positive or negative. Things around us are either obstacles or a betterment of society.

Design’s agenda is the betterment of society. PAA is a small company, determined to innovate, made some very nice things, and to me I’m very respectful of that.”

Pointe

Washbasin Pointe - 555 × 375 mm / h 182 mm / Silkstone

The futuristic silhouettes of Pointe are Rashid's homage to ballerinas, who defy gravity with elegant ease, and especially to his daughter, who is passionate about this art of movement.

The organic shape of the Pointe bath redefines conventional silhouettes and gently cradles the human body.

“In the bathroom we are at our most vulnerable - naked and alone - so everything in this space has to be safe, soft, smooth, and rounded, without sharp corners. It needs to be an environment of relaxation and calm.”
